

The Mayor's Book Club is pleased to present our Book-of-the-Month for September:

I'm Having A Sky Blue Day!

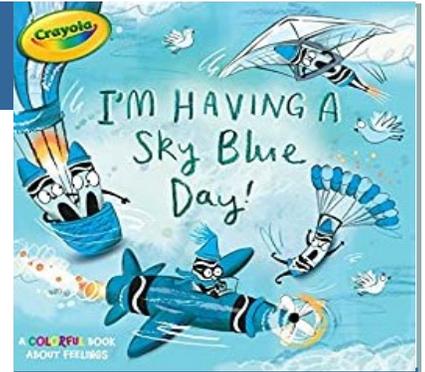

By: Maggie Testa

It's Fun and Easy!

I'm Having A Sky Blue Day by Maggie Testa is a story about feelings that is inspired by all of your favorite Crayola colors. Whether you're in the mood for adventure or relaxation, this book has a crayon color to match how you are feeling.

Tip #1 – This is book has a great message about how not all days are perfect, but you can turn them around. Each page connects a feeling to a color and asks the reader what color feels like the emotion talked about on that page. When reading this book ask your child what color feels wonderful, exciting, relaxing, adventurous or some other emotion.

Tip #2 – This story is a wonderful book to use when working with your child to recognize color sight words. You can use a box of crayons to have your child read the colors printed on the side of the individual crayons.

Did You Know?

Did you know that children are more likely to read if they see you enjoying a good book. In addition to reading to your child at bedtime or other specific story time, find time where you can sit together and each read your own book. Instead allowing your child to use electronic readers encourage them to use paperback and hard cover books. Did you know that they will need to know how the story flows from left to right and how to turn the book pages before they enter kindergarten.

BRING THE STORY TO LIFE!

In the story "I'm Having A Sky Blue Day" by Maggie Testa, the crayon colors represent different feelings that we may have each day. After reading this book with your child you can encourage them to color a picture using crayon colors that reflect their mood. You can color as well to show them the color of your mood.
